The Art of Doing Work

Preparing for employment

Communications

Got a job! Now what

It is all about expectations, for the employer and the employee. Every employer needs somebody who can do the job. However small, medium or big the job may be, what every employer looks out for is dependability, loyalty and the hard dying attitude to do work.

Expectations grow in organizations and in this race employees either lag behind or race ahead. Nobody has the spirit, the skills, the knowledge or even the necessary attitude to race along.

As a result what is left, an unhappy employer and an unsatisfied employee, who keeps jumping jobs and ultimately his career!
